Prof. DALE'S PERSIAN Horse and Cattle Powders

DROF. DALE WAS A DISTINGUISHED Veterinary Surgeon of England, and graduated with the ighest honors in the most relebrated Veterinary School Europe. After completing his education, he travel-extensively in the East, through Arabia, Persia, and Tur-ty, those countries where the horse is seen in his highest and nest perfect condition, for the purpose of making observa-ions with regard to the management and treatment of horses, both in disease and in health, by the inhabitants of the original climates of this noble and useful animal. While in Persia, he was rewarded in his researches by the discovery of the above valuable compound, which he found the Persians adimistered in almost all cases of disease of their horses, either lone or in conjunction with other remedies. The surprising access that attended its administration led him to investigate principles upon which its great remedial virtues wer founded, and was the means of revolutionizing his whole ideas with regard to the treatment of diseases in horses. Previously to this time, bleeding and purging, and other depletory means, was the universal custom, both with the scientific practitioner and the would-be "horse-dector."
